The music of harp and voice-based chamber folk trio THISTLE has been described as haunting and angelic. With lyrics inspired by poetry and fairytales, this original music is meant to be heard in cemeteries, cathedrals, historic theaters, and gardens.

Led by composer, singer and harpist Thistle Jemison, THISTLE includes a cast of musicians, each accomplished in their own right, in the jazz, classical, and world genres. Her previous record, "The Ice Maiden Comes" was inspired by Hans Christian Andersen and her latest by Edgar Allan Poe. THISTLE's upcoming "Mysterious Star: A Tribute to Poe," was engineered by Jeff Cook at Second Story Sound in Manhattan. Release details TBA.
